introduction

hello there dear readwe,

i apologize as i do not know your name or who you are. sadly to say i doubt we shall ever meet, however you will soon hold a piece of my heart. in it you are to witness my sins in full immersion. i am painting my past and my suffering for you to envision and reflect upon. do not be afraid though as this is for your benefit. i promise this story has a happy ending, however it will take some time to get there. to get to the brighter side of this tale we must endure the dark. the dark in this sense shall be known as the curse. it is a part of all human beings. it is just as much inside you as it is me. the dark is always frightening and usually painful, but you do not have to fear it. i shall hold your hand and guide you through on our journey together. if you get weak do not hesitate on taking a break for i shall not leave your side. i shall always be here with you. do not fret as we embark on this adventure together and i hope you find a piece of me inside of yourself when we reach our destination. i hope this part of my very being may bring you the peace you are searching for.

with love,
dsd
