To every single person I've ever loved, I wouldn't be the writer or woman that I am without you. Thank you, no matter how we left off.

The First I Love You

Dear C,

You were the first boy I ever said I love you to

You're married now

I know you'll never catch yourself thinking back to who you were then

What we were then

But I wish happiness for you forevermore

Thank you for being someone I loved

Sincerely, the girl who needed that love more than you ever knew

The Cheerleader

Dear H,

I will forever be sorry for how much I scared you back then

I hadn't ever felt so much before

Not for a girl

And definitely not someone of your social standing

It was terrifying

Being so open and vulnerable

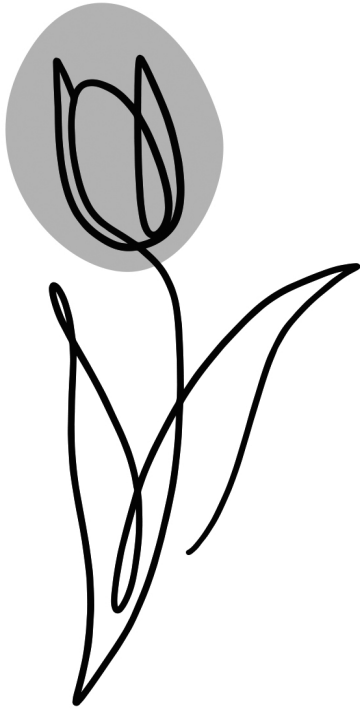

It meant everything

The delicacy you had in the situation

I'll never forget that kindness

And I'll forever be thankful for it

Sincerely, that queer kid in your Spanish class

The Dancer

Dear T,
You were the first girl I ever tried to kiss
I remember how scared I was
But I had to try
I knew if I didn't at least go for it
I'd regret it forever
You moved down and I got your forehead
I immediately ran from you
All I could say was sorry
I still say sorry
It's been seven years
I'm glad it wasn't you that was my first
It meant a lot more later with who actually kissed me
But I'll forever be grateful that I loved you Because I wouldn't know what to do to show someone that I love them if it wasn't for you
I learned so much from you
