The poet never dies.

Beneath a stone
unturned

Dedicated to the love of my life the immortal vine from which we fruit . Time lays no burden upon us, for the fine details of life and death, a love embedded in our souls each spoken word or breath, we have forever calved in stone, the embers burn upon each eve, as love of ours it is eternal , heart to heart we breathe. Love belongs to us unchanging, may it grow in strength on either side .
